ONGOING PROJECT

Horticulture National Lean Leaders Program

Project code: MT22011

Funded by Hort Innovation using the multi-industry R&D levy

Delivered by Moshie Pty Ltd

Project duration: Ongoing

What's in it for you?

This project gives growers the tools to lead change and drive continuous improvement in their own businesses.

It supports participants to build leadership capability, improve operations and strengthen productivity – using a program designed specifically for horticulture.

What the project delivers

- A 20-week national leadership program focused on lean business practices
- 10 x four-hour online workshops, delivered fortnightly via Zoom
- Practical, workplace-applied learning between sessions
- Access to tools, strategies and peer learning to support long-term improvement

The program is open to growers in the apple and pear, onion, raspberry and blackberry, and vegetable industries – with learnings relevant across horticulture.

So what? What's changed?

Many growers are looking for ways to improve systems, reduce waste and lead more effectively – but don't always have time or access to tailored training.

This program provides a practical structure that delivers measurable results while you work – helping participants build capability and confidence without stepping away from the business.

Why this matters

Strong businesses need strong leaders.

This project helps growers lead change from the inside – by giving them the tools to think differently, act strategically and make continuous improvement part of the everyday.
